To: Match Competitors

Subj.: MATCH DIRECTOR'S WELCOME

Welcome to the 2010 Fleet Forces Command (Pacific) and All Navy (West) Marksmanship matches. On behalf of the entire Match Staff, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to both you and your command for your support. With a dedicated, experienced, and all-volunteer Match Staff, we are committed to assisting new shooters in completing the next one or two weeks of competition and training realizing they have learned more about long and short-range small arms marksmanship than they had imagined possible. You will also realize the discipline, patience, and innate skill you possess to operate in a stressful but controlled situation. The experienced competitor will leave knowing that he or she has provided an invaluable training experience for the new shooters, which is imperative for small arms proficiency and competition to endure and grow.

The Navy marksmanship matches are not simply sporting events. They are military training events. As with all other Navy training events, safety is paramount. We will conduct two weeks of training in a safe manner. With this in mind, all competitors should remember that it is up to each and every one of us to do our part in creating and maintaining a safe training environment. And we should also remember that each one of us has the authority to halt the training the moment an unsafe environment should present itself.

Continuous, positive control and full accountability of all rifles and pistols is principal. Do not load a round of ammunition into any weapon until given the command to do so. Cease-fire when the command is given. Maintain strict muzzle awareness and positive control of your firearms at all times. Match personnel will be working closely with first-time competitors and we welcome your questions, comments, and observations, particularly about the current National Rifle Association (NRA) Highpower Rifle and Bullseye Pistol Rules, and the current Civilian Marksmanship Program (CMP) rules, which will largely govern the conduct of the matches. Our task is to expand on your training in the fundamentals of safe, effective use of small arms and then allow you to demonstrate your technical proficiency in a competitive environment.

The Fleet Forces Command (Pacific) Matches will provide you a safe, fun, and educational experience and will supply your commands with a cadre of competent small arms personnel. From these matches, a select few will qualify to participate on the Pacific Fleet Rifle and Pistol Teams. The Pacific Fleet Team will go on to the All Navy (West) Rifle and Pistol Championships scheduled immediately following the Pacific Fleet Championship. Those further selected at the All Navy Match championships will be invited to represent the Navy at the Rifle and Pistol Inter-Service and National Championships later in the year.

Your shipmates who are fulfilling your duties during your time with us support your presence here. I suggest you make certain that your CO/XO/CMC/Department Head/LCPO and co-workers realize how much their support has meant to you. This is very important to your future shooting endeavors as well as the Navy Marksmanship Program.

You are required to read and know this Match Bulletin. You will need to print it and bring it with you to the matches. If you have questions, ask! There is no transportation to/from the east coast for All Navy. Additionally, if you compete here you cannot compete again for awards in the east coast matches.

Enjoy your time at the matches, ask questions, observe, and learn from those more skilled than you. Establish your reputation for sportsman-like conduct. Be helpful, volunteer to assist where you can, be courteous and make new friends who can provide you insight into the vast diversity that is our Navy.

We are guests of the Marine Corps and Naval Special Warfare – act professionally! Keep the Marine Corps and Naval Special Warfare ranges clean and treat our hosts, and the match staff, with respect.

Being heads-up and alert will ensure we have a safe and successful match. Be prepared for each stage of the match and you will have fun! Hold hard, align your sights, and keep your shots in the X ring!

Very Respectfully,

E. W. HANSEN
CDR USNR

Open To: The FFC (PAC) and ALL NAVY Championships are open to all Active Duty Navy and Navy Reservists (active and inactive), Fleet Reserve, Retired, Midshipmen, NROTC Units, United States Coast Guard Personnel, other Services and Civilians (NRA Expert or higher). Range priority will be given to Navy and Coast Guard personnel. The All Navy match is an invitational match and only selected competitors from FFC (PAC) may attend.

Note: During any given calendar year an individual may only compete in one Fleet match (either coast) and, if qualified (or at discretion of match director), one All Navy match (either coast). For example, an individual may compete at the FFC (PAC) matches and the All Navy (East) Matches, but may not compete at both the All Navy (West) and All Navy (East) matches. This restriction holds for all phases of the championships: individual, team, and excellence in competition (EIC) matches.

These competitions have been an excellent achievement opportunity for our individual service members over the past 40 years. In addition, there is recognition afforded to command teams. This is both advanced marksmanship training and competition. Commanding Officers are encouraged to give special consideration to afford interested volunteers and teams the opportunity to participate. Advanced marksmanship training will enhance force protection. Additionally, the matches allow team competitions amongst small and large activities, enhancing command competitive spirit.

Due to safety considerations and the limited time to conduct this event, a base line of experience is required for participation by meeting one of the following:

- (1) Watch stander or higher qualification IAW OPNAVINST 3591.1E with rifle or pistol.
- (2) NRA rifle or pistol classification, (Civilians must be Expert or Higher).
- (3) Participation in excellence in competition (leg) program with award points earned.

General Information:

- Safety is our top priority. Wear/use your personal protective equipment and obey the rules. Always handle your weapon with magazine out, bolt or slide locked to the rear, empty chamber indicator inserted (rifle), and muzzle in a safe direction. Violations of these rules are sufficient for immediate disqualification. Stay hydrated and wear sunscreen.
- Profanity or abusive language will not be tolerated. Conduct yourselves in a professional manner in keeping with the Navy Core Values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. The marksmanship discipline exemplifies these traits. Move your conversation to the appropriate location, i.e. far away from competitors trying to concentrate on a well placed shot.
- Alcohol policy. The consumption of alcohol less than eight hours prior to shooting or while shooting is in progress is prohibited. If you are suspected of being under the influence, you may be directed to medical for a fitness for duty evaluation and subsequent administrative action, including expulsion from the match.
- Limited Technical Inspections, performed by match armorers, will be conducted on all weapons to be fired, including government owned. (This is required before you may shoot the weapon)
- Eating facilities are not available on the ranges. The closest eating facility to range 102/103 is Camp Margarita, 2 miles north. The closest eating facility to range 116 is 2 miles west (Pulgas Area). There are no lunch breaks so plan accordingly with your own food. No weapons will be transported around the base while visiting food sales establishments.
- All participants should bring their own food, water, and containers.

Know the Rules

How well do you know the rules? All competitive shooters, novice or experienced, should have a copy of the current rulebook for the competition they're shooting, and should be familiar with it. If a rule is unclear to you, you can ask a tournament official or Official Referee for help or clarification. There two important things to remember about the rules:

(1) The rules apply to everyone, from a High Master with several National Championships to his credit to a Marksman attending his second match; and

- (2) You may not agree with all the rules, but you must follow them, both the spirit and the letter.
- (3) The Match Director has the final decision authority on all rule conflicts and special situations.

Key Technicalities

There are a few details not generally covered by rulebooks or tournament programs, but which are important:

1. Be sure your entry card is filled out completely, correctly and legibly. Include current classification and special category, when appropriate. Your competitor number for the Navy Matches is required as it is the key to your records. Social Security Numbers are not required on score cards or other match paperwork except entry form.

2. At any match where competitors score for each other, you must make neat, legible figures. There must be no question whether a figure is a "1" or a "7", and each box on the scorecard must be properly filled in with a figure. For example, in High Power Rifle matches, a miss is an "M", it is not an empty space, a dash, or anything else. In any match, an "X" in the first box, followed by a line through the next nine boxes DOES NOT mean 10 X's, but 1 X and 9 misses. As the scorer, how would you like to inform the shooter that his first "clean" ever doesn't exist as far as the Stat Office is concerned?

3. The shooter also has a responsibility to make sure the score fired has been marked on the card properly, and if not, to take the proper steps to change it through the Range Officer. Never sign your scorecard until you have fired the match and have verified the shot values and total score shown on the card. Once you and the scorer sign the card, you've accepted the shot values indicated there and have no appeal.

4. Know the difference between a "challenge" and a "protest." You challenge the evaluation of a particular shot. You protest:
a) any injustice you feel has been done to you (except the evaluation of a target); b) the conditions under which another shooter has been permitted to fire; or c) the equipment, which another competitor has been permitted to use.

5. Be punctual. Better than being punctual, get there early. An hour is sometimes not long enough to get squadded, get out your gear, and be ready to participate. If the program states the match begins at 0700, you can be 99% sure that the first relay will be on the line at 0700 AM ready to shoot. Allow yourself plenty of time to get to the match, especially if the location of the range is unfamiliar to you. Arriving late and rushing about to get yourself and your equipment ready is almost guaranteed to ruin your shooting day. If you arrive after the muster period, you might not be able to shoot at all.

6. Don't be afraid to go to ask questions. Everyone has to start somewhere. Provided you follow the rules, other shooters are always happy and willing to answer questions and help you along.

7. Offer to help out. The vast majority of tournaments are conducted by just a handful of volunteers. Extra help is always welcome. Granted, you've paid your entry fee and are entitled to devote your attention to your shooting, but you can still offer to police the range after the match, put away equipment or any number of other tasks. Without the people who give up their shooting time in order to provide it for others, there wouldn't be a tournament. These matches are successful because of TEAMWORK. So please do your part as a competitor.

8. Be sure clothing worn to a tournament reflects your concern for comfort and safety as well as recognition on your part that competitive shooting should be represented in as positive a manner as possible. Especially when TV or newspaper coverage will take place, attire should be in good taste in order to enhance the image of this sport being conveyed to the general public. Items containing controversial or offensive slogans or which, in any other way, could detract from the professional aspect of competition are unnecessary and strongly discouraged. Inappropriate clothing could be the basis for a Match Director not allowing a competitor to participate.

9. There is no reason to complain about the perception that another shooter has an unfair advantage. If you see a rule infraction, notify a member of the match staff. It will be addressed. Maintain a professional attitude and allow the staff to run the match.

10. Enjoy yourself. Sometimes it's hard to remember to do that but try to keep in mind that while competitive shooting can be serious, demanding, and nerve-racking, it is still great fun and is populated by the nicest people in the world, other shooters.

NAVY RIFLE AND PISTOL TEAM RULES

ACTIVE TEAM: All shooters must be on active duty from the same command; a reservist may be a member of an active team if the reservist is on extended active duty of over 90 days before the match starts. Other services stationed at the same command may be part of the team but can only make up 50% of the firing members. An FTS team from the same Reserve Center/Command will be considered as an active duty team, however if one member is a reservist from the same Reserve Center/Command then the team will be considered a reserve team. Every team must have a new shooter.

Note: Retired, reserve or other ineligible members may serve on a legal team as non-firing members, i.e. coach, score keepers, target pullers, etc.

Command Team: All members of the team must be from the same command or three members of the team must be from the same command and the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of new active shooters. Command Team must have a new shooter.

Move-up Team: A small command (only) that can not muster a complete team or can not muster three members for a team may move up one echelon (level) from their current level. If a Move-up team still doesn't have a fourth member then the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of new active shooters. A move up may change the status from small command to large command. Move-up Team must have a new shooter.

Makeup Team: The team is made up of three individuals from various commands. The fourth member will be randomly drawn from a pool of active shooters. The team must have a new shooter. Makeup teams will only win bragging rights, and will not be considered for awarding of command trophies. (The use of this rule is at the discretion of the Board).

Command Team and the Move-Up Team, are considered the same for team awards or team standing.

RESERVE TEAM: All shooters must be on reserve <sup>(1)</sup> or fleet reserve <sup>(2)</sup>. Active duty, and retired may not be members of a reserve team. Reserve Unit would be people from the same UIC. Reserve Center is the order-writing authority for those Unit/Units. Note: Every team must have a new shooter.

<sup>(1)</sup> Reservists mobilized to extended active duty may request to compete as reservists for both individual and team matches. However, a reservist must declare his or her intent to compete as active or reserve prior to the start of the matches, and must compete for all individual and team awards in the same category for the duration of the matches.

<sup>(2)</sup> A Fleet Reserve may request to compete as retired/civilian for both individual and team matches. However, a Fleet Reservist must declare their intent to compete as reserve or Retired/Civilian prior to the start of the matches, and must compete for all individual and team awards in the same category for the duration of the matches.

Note: Retired, Active or other ineligible members may serve on a legal team as non-firing members, i.e. coach, score keepers, target pullers, etc.

Command Team (I): All members of the team must be from the same Reserve Unit or the same Reserve Center. If the team has only three members from the same Reserve unit or Reserve center, then the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of reserve shooters. Note: Command Team must have a new shooter.

Command Team (II): All members of the team must be from the same Reserve Unit or the same Reserve Center. FTS will be considered reserves if they are responsible for the administering of the same Reserve Center. If the team has only three members from the same reserve unit or reserve center, then the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of reserve shooters. Note: Command Team must have a new shooter.

Move-up Team: A team that can not muster a complete team or can not muster three members of a team may move up one echelon if the team was formed at the Reserve Center or move up two echelons if the team was formed at the Reserve Unit. Move up teams cannot move above the Regional Command. If a Move-up Team still doesn't have a fourth member then the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of reserve shooters. A move up may change the status from small command to large command. Move-up Team must have a new shooter.

Discipline Team: All members of the team must be from the same Reserve Discipline (NAVSEA, Amphibious, Submarine, Air, Support, etc.) If the team has only three members from the same reserve discipline, then the remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of reserve shooters. The Reserve Unit, Reserve Center, or the Reserve Region constraints do not restrict a Discipline Team; the only constraint is they must all be from the same discipline. Note: Discipline Team must have a new shooter.

Note: Command Team (I), Command Team (II), Move-Up Team and the Discipline Team, are considered the same for team awards or team standing.

Make-up Team: The team is made up of three individuals from various reserve disciplines or commands. The remaining member will be randomly drawn from a pool of reserve shooters. The make-up team must have a new shooter. Make-up teams will only win bragging rights, and will not be considered for awarding of command trophies. (The use of this rule is at the discretion of the Board).

RETIRED TEAM: All shooters must be retired from the NAVY. Enlisted are retired after 30 years. Officers are retired upon leaving active duty. Active duty, Fleet Reserve <sup>(1)</sup> or Reserve members cannot be members of a retired team. Retired team will not be considered for awarding of command trophies.

<sup>(1)</sup> A Fleet Reserve may request to compete as retired for both individual and team matches. However, a Fleet Reservist must declare their intent to compete as reserve or Retired/Civilian prior to the start of the matches, and must compete for all individual and team awards in the same category for the duration of the matches.
